NOTES FROM A CITY MOM

My Toddler's Little Wins

A little record of what your 15-month-old is doing these days.

15 MONTHS

Based on CDC's 15-Month Milestone Moments Checklist

HOW TO USE

How to use this little record

This isn't a test. There's no score to add up.

Toddler's name: _____ Age today: _____ Today's date: _____

1 Look through the little wins.

These pages use milestones from CDC's 15-Month Milestone Moments Checklist.

2 Notice what you've seen.

Check the things you've already noticed and write down when you first saw them.

If you're not sure yet, leave it blank and keep noticing.

3 Use this as a parent record.

Bring it to your toddler's checkup if you'd like, and use it to remember questions for your child's doctor.

This little record is not a developmental screening or diagnosis.

SOCIAL / EMOTIONAL

Little ways your toddler connects

Here are some everyday ways your 15-month-old may be connecting through play, affection, and excitement.

1 Copies other children while playing

First noticed: _____

2 Shows you an object they like

First noticed: _____

3 Claps when excited

First noticed: _____

4 Hugs stuffed doll or other toy

First noticed: _____

5 Shows you affection

Hugs, cuddles, or kisses you

First noticed: _____

LANGUAGE / COMMUNICATION

Little ways your toddler communicates

Here are some everyday ways your 15-month-old may be using sounds, words, gestures, and looks to share what they notice and need.

1 Tries to say 1 or 2 words besides “mama” or “dada”

What this looks like:
The word doesn’t have to sound complete yet. Your toddler might say “ba” for ball.

First noticed: _____

2 Looks at a familiar object when you name it

What this looks like:
You name something your toddler knows, and they look toward it.

First noticed: _____

3 Follows directions given with both a gesture and words

For example, you hold out your hand and say, “Give me the toy.”
Your toddler gives it to you.

First noticed: _____

4 Points to ask for something or to get help

What this looks like:
Your toddler points because they want something or need your help.

First noticed: _____

COGNITIVE + MOVEMENT / PHYSICAL DEVELOPMENT

Little ways your toddler learns and moves

Here are some everyday ways your 15-month-old may be learning how things work and moving more confidently.

1 Tries to use things the right way

Your toddler is beginning to use familiar things in familiar ways.

First noticed: _____

2 Stacks at least 2 small objects

First noticed: _____

3 Takes a few steps on their own

First noticed: _____

4 Uses fingers to feed themselves some food

First noticed: _____

LITTLE NOTES

Little things I noticed lately

A simple place to keep little moments, questions, and new things you want to remember.

Today's date

Something new I noticed

A little moment I loved

Something my toddler loves

Something we love doing together

Something I'm wondering about

Okay... I checked the boxes.
Now what?

1 There's no score to add up.

This record isn't a test. It helps you notice and remember what you're seeing in your toddler's everyday life.

2 I haven't seen one or more of these yet.

If your toddler is not meeting one or more milestones, talk with your child's doctor, share your concerns, and ask about developmental screening.

3 Something just feels concerning to me.

You don't need a score before asking a question.
If you're concerned about your toddler's development, talk with your child's doctor.

LOST SKILLS ALERT

My toddler used to do something — but stopped.

CDC says: "Don't wait."

If your child has lost skills they once had, talk with your child's doctor, share your concerns, and ask about develop mental screening.

Something my toddler used to do: _____

When I noticed the change: _____